

Yves Ducq

Open Science Manager. Former Vice-President Quality Assurance. University of Bordeaux. France.

Yves DUCQ is full Professor, former vice-president of University of Bordeaux, and current mission leader of the University in charge of open science and documentation. He is responsible of the Production Engineering research group of IMS laboratory. Yves Ducq is Doctor from University Bordeaux 1 in Production Management and Enterprise Modelling. He received his PhD degree at the University Bordeaux 1 in 1999 and received his Accreditation to Supervise Research in 2007.

He is working on Performance Measurement, Enterprise Modelling, Production Management and Interoperability and has published more than 50 papers in books and international journals and more than 100 papers in international conferences.

He has been involved on several European projects for more than twenty years. He was strongly involved in INTEROP Network of Excellence, and is now President of virtual laboratory on interoperability: INTEROP Vlab. He is also involved in many French research projects. He has also act as research engineer on several contracts with industry on performance improvement and quality. Yves is currently strongly involved in the ENLIGHT alliance with 8 other universities in Europe.

